Macon, Mo., June 25.—Dora C. Calkins, a well-dressed young white woman of 25 years, was placed in jail last night on the charge of breaking into a car on the Burlington tracks and stealing four dozen eggs. This morning she frankly admitted taking the eggs, but said she did not know her car was stolen.

"I came here from St. Louis two weeks ago," said the young woman, "to take care of my invalid sister, Nita Tom Farmer. She was very sick and weak and needed things to eat. Her husband did not work and finally I had to get out on the railroad right of way and dig through the bushes and hunt for food. Finally I got to a place where I heard that there was a car of eggs on the railroad track which I could get at easily, but I did not intend to break the seal. I have always been a good girl, and my parents were respectable people. But I could not stand around while my poor sister was suffering and die."
